

The 48-Hour Draft Protocol

Kickoff to shareable rough draft in two days. Structure, not polish. It will not feel ready, that is the design.

THE RULE (READ BEFORE EVERY KICKOFF)

The protocol

Kickoff, two sessions maximum, timeboxed. Skeleton only: headings, structure, the argument in bullets. Wrong-but-complete beats right-but-partial. At hour 48, send it, labeled v0.5, for direction not polish, with one question attached.

THE LOG (ADD A ROW EVERY CYCLE)

| DELIVERABLE | KICKOFF DATE | NAMED READER | THE ONE QUESTION | DRAFT SENT, LABELED V0.5 | DIRECTION CONFIRMED OR CORRECTED |
|-------------|--------------|--------------|------------------|--------------------------|----------------------------------|
|             |              |              |                  |                          |                                  |
|             |              |              |                  |                          |                                  |
|             |              |              |                  |                          |                                  |
|             |              |              |                  |                          |                                  |
|             |              |              |                  |                          |                                  |
|             |              |              |                  |                          |                                  |
|             |              |              |                  |                          |                                  |
|             |              |              |                  |                          |                                  |
|             |              |              |                  |                          |                                  |